

四季の俳句 Four Seasons' Haiku

Ryan Trostle

Ryan Trostle is a junior at Boston University double-majoring in English Literature and Japanese. He has recently studied abroad in Japan where he had the beautiful opportunity to practice the language. On campus, Ryan is a BU Upward Bound high school tutor and will be an RA his senior year. He has been published by Boston University's student publication "The Beacon", and literary journals such as "The Allegheny Review" and "Runestone".

雪の朝	Morning of snow
消えた塩鮭	Disappearing salmon
猫の鈴	A cat's bell

ハシドイの	The lilac's rebirth
再生と香り	With aroma anew yet
年をとる	Only I grow old

空の下	Beneath the blue sky
風鈴の歌と	Between the songs of wind chimes
心臓音	The sound of your heart

空の跡	Traces of sky
消える夕色	The fading color of daylight
星出るか	Will the stars move on, too?